Statement by the Speaker re: a threatening letter received by a Member.

MR. SPEAKER.—Hon'ble Members will remember that yesterday Sri B. P. Nagaraja Murthy brought to the notice of the House the receipt of an anonymous letter by him. At the request of the Hon'ble Members the letter was also read out in the House. I am sure the Hon'ble Members will all agree that it is a clear case of menacing or threatening letter received by a member in connection with his duties as member.

There are innumerable instances in the Journals of the House of Commons to show that Parliament has been most jealous in guarding the valuable privilege of the House and has taken the most severe action against the breach of this privilege.

Such being the clear law on this subject, the question arises what action should be taken in the present case. If the letter had been signed and the person disclosed, I would have had no hesitation in referring the matter to the Committee of Privileges and I have no doubt that the Committee would have reported and the House would have adopted necessary action to protect the member in the discharge of his duties. But the letter is an anonymous one. Any reference to the Committee therefore is likely to result only in a finding of a breach of privilege and no other useful action can be recommended by it in the circumstances. I think that the best course would therefore be to pass on the letter to the Government and to request them to use the machinery at their disposal to try and find out the person who is responsible for this letter.

It would be a most dangerous state of affairs indeed if Hon'ble Members were to be menaced or threatened for doing their duty as members of this
